Summary

Hi, I am Oguzhan and I am passionate about product management and everything product-related.

Currently, I wear two hats: one as a Product Manager at an Incubation/Acceleration startup, Game Factory, driving the development and launch of new solutions and programs, and the other as an Operations Manager at an education startup, SKILLED, where I aspire to deliver life-changing learning experiences.

I'm always open to conversations about product strategy, operational excellence, or the world of startups. If you are looking to collaborate, share insights, or explore potential synergies, I'm just a message away!
